THE Philadelphia Press says: News comes that the gallant Phil. Sheridan is at last captured, not by the Indians, but by the beautiml Miss Morgan of New York, a niece of ex Senator Morgan.

A CALCULATION made by the Harrisburg Patriot, the central Democratic organ, shows that in forty counties of Pennsyl-Vania the vote of that party fell off 82,049 from 1868. In the remaining twenty-six it was increased over that of 1888. From this fact the Patriot argues that GREELEY if the full Democratic vote can be secured for him. But the Philadelphia Press reminds the Putriot that it forgets that it was Greeker that kept these Democrats all the evening, with an air of pleased proprietizable. can carry the State in November, that is, from voting for Mr. BUCKALEW.

THE authority for holding the election at this time is found in the second sec-tion of the third chapter of the Code, which provides that members of Congress shall be chosen at the time of the general State election, which has hereto-fore been held on the fourth Thursday in October.—Register.

October.—Register.

But the new Constitution changed the time of holding "the general State election" to the Second Tuesday of October, and without further legislation the election without further legislation the election of the second Tuesday of October, and without further legislation the election of grayish beard—a most agreeable face of grayish beard—a most agreeable face tit is, but not handsome. Some one and without further legislation the etection of Congressmen will be held at that time. But for this year, the Schedule to the Constitution changed "the general State election" to August 22d; and it being provided in the Code, as the Register says "that members of Congress shall be chosen at the time of the general State commences to speak with what almost seems like abruntness, because he goes chosen at the time of the general State election," it followed of necessity that this year they had to be elected in August. The Repiter makes it very clear. We commend its exposition of the law to the next House of Representatives.

Evrary one understands in a very early "Why, in order to possess color, must it be blown out thin?" With arms sort of a way, both from experience and observation, that this country is and a safer this Newtonian conundrum. I didn't know the wherefore, so under my breath observation, that this country is and is growing extravagant. There is too little attention paid to the fact that through this extravagance we are heaping up a debt abroad to be paid sooner or later, with interest in the mean time in gold. For example—the imports over the exports for the ten months ending April 20, 1871, thought of Newton, which resulted in the famous Newton's through the followed the famous Newton's ries. Then this wonfamous Newton's rings. Then this won-der maker, superb scientific conjurer that he is, displayed to us the image of these amounted to $13,250,710, while for the ten months ending April 30, 1872, the exten months ending April 39, 1842, the excess of the imports over the exports was $33,005,871. The exports of cotton and grain between this and Spring will doubless do something to change this enormous large adverse balance, but the questions which interest the country are consisted alternately of light and darkness: then in blue light. The solution of ness; then in blue light. The soluti these: Are we doing all we can to limit our imports, and increase our exports, and what porportion of our imports is of articles of loxury with which we could it lacked the prophetic visions of a true as well or better do without?

THE Greeleyites are furnishing some of excuses for their full conditions of the some of the source o TRE Greeleyites are furnishing some good excuses for their followers to desert the coalition and support Grant and Wilton For example, in Palmyrs, Mo, the other day, a Greeley club raised the old Confederate flag and forced the Republic of the diagrams on the blackboard, remains the days the Land of the diagrams on the blackboard, remains the days the Land of the diagrams on the blackboard, remains the days the Land of the diagrams.

other day, a Greeley club raised the old Confederate flag and forced the Republi cans to take down the United States flag. And again in Carroll, Louisiana, a few days ago, the Greeley ites mobbed and destroyed a newspaper establishment. These are arguments such as Mr. Greeley used to denounce the Democrats for using. They are having the effect to drive thoughtral men away from their candidates, however. The latest converts are the Anderson (Indians) Standard, and the Ovid (N. Y.) Bee, two earnest Democratic supporters of Greeley, who have found that their party siter all is not the party of reconciliation, but of violence. They will support Grant and Wilson.

Mrs. Joaquin Millera having told the public about Mr. Josquin, that Byronic gentleman has taken an airing with a New York reporter, in behalf of the defendant. There is not a crime in the decatogue which Mrs. Miller did not lay at the door of Joaquin; but Mr. Miller replies, like the meek and abject poet he is, "I can say nothing about it. I have disputed nothing, and will allow nobody to dispute any of her statements." Which must have created in the bosom of the reporter what the English journals call "sensation." Then Joaquin proceeded to dispute any of her statements." Which must have created in the bosom of the reporter what the English journals call "sensation." Then Joaquin proceeded to dispute, seria. tim, every syllable which she has said, even declaring that he thought the thirty cent brass, this high the sense to Mand was not brass. He believed that she in the declared in the bosom of the reporter what the effect to drive thought the thirty can be a subject to the public of the public about the content of the public about the definite structure producing, like some magic mirror, the whole performance. Jack Frost himself never wrought devices more exquisite on any window pane. Sort, feathery crystalls shout out in every dir tim, every syllable which she has aid, even declaring that he thought the thirry cent brass chain which he sent to Mand was not brass. He believed that she had had becfsteak as often as he had; and brought tears to the reporter's eyes by assuring him that "the relations between man and wife are so sacred, so holy, that I would be committing crime if I were to say anything against her," and then he demonstrated that she was a fabricator of the most unprincipled sort. It becomes apparent that whatever mischief Mrs. Miller has done by her lecture, Mr. Miller has done by her lecture, Mr. Miller has unmistakably stepped on himself by his reply.
